This activity that shows how the same instructions are interpreted differently by different people and highlights the importance of clear communication.

Mentor gives each participant sheet of letter size/A4 paper and asks them to close their eyes and follow your instructions to create “an origami”. They must keep their eyes closed and cannot ask any questions.

Then he starts giving the group several instructions to fold and rip their papers several times. After this he asks them to unfold their paper and compare how it looks like.

Then the group can discuss why each paper looks a little bit different even though the same instructions were given to everybody. What does this mean? The group can discuss about interpretation the information, about how important is to ask questions and confirm understanding to ensure the communicated message is not distorted.
